Latest Foreign Intelligence.

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.

Yesterday arrived the ship Hindestan, capt.

Findley, in 36 days from Liverpool.

Capt. Findley has politely furnished us with London papers to the 30th March, from which the following extracts are made:

PARIS, March 26.

According to letters from the Hague, several Couriers have successively arrived in that city from Paris, bearing dispatches relative to the present posture of affairs. Military preparations and dispositions are going to be carried on from the mouth of the Meuse to the Texel. In case of a rupture with England, there will be assembled on that point of the Dutch coast, a large body of troops. Strong hopes are however entertained that there will be no necessity of coming to these extremities.

Letters from Luxembourg state, that the different corps now in garrison, of the 25th and 26th military division, are immediately to march to join the 24th division. These troops will form a part of the camp which is to be formed in the neighbourhood of Brussels.

Letters from Bordeaux of the 17th mention, that on the two preceding days, very considerable purchases of coffee, sugar, and cotton, had been there made. From the eagerness of the demand for those commodities, it was naturally supposed that it might be occasioned by some very particular reason not generally known. On the 17th, therefore, several houses refused to make any farther sales till they should be better informed of the reason of such a sudden urgency of demand.

We have received the following intelligence from Constantinople, dated the 15th of February: "The Commandant of the Ottoman troops in Egypt has acquainted the Porte, that Gen. Stuart had communicated to him an order from his Court, stating, that as soon as the differences with the Beys were settled, he should evacuate Egypt and repair to Malta with his troops; as in the interval, Lord Elgin has settled those differences it is believed, that Egypt is entirely evacuated at this moment."

"The arrival of the French Ambassador was the signal for rejoicing. His landing on the 6th ult. was announced by a discharge of artillery. A vast crowd was assembled wherever he passed."

"The Grand Seigneur repaired in his kiosk to see the Ambassador and his suite pass. The Reis Effendi and the captain Pacha complimented him; and all the French in Constantinople welcomed him on his entrance into the Palace of France. In the arrival of the Ambassador of the Republic, and in that of the Commissaries of Commercial Relations, destined for the several ports of the Black Sea and of the Levant, they beheld the pledge of the fulfilment of their hopes."

"The first interview between the French Ambassadors and the Ottoman Ministers, have been sufficient to restore to France the honorable rank which she ought to hold in the Levant. The Latin Church is again placed under the protection of the Republic, of which it had been deprived during the war. Confidence is reviving between the inhabitants and the French, and the residence of the Ambassador will soon have all the advantages which can be hoped for from Peace."

The Count de Marcoff having acceded in the name of his government to the Convention concluded at Paris, between the French Republic and the Emperor of Germany, on the 5th Nivose last (Dec. 26) and the Emperor of Russia having ratified the accession of his minister plenipotentiary, the exchange of the respective ratifications between France and Russia took place at Petersburg on the 2d. Ver-tose (Feb. 21), and the official notes which accompanied this exchange, the high Chancellor of Russia, Count Alexander de Woronzoff announced "the great satisfaction which his Majesty the Emperor had experienced at the conclusion of this arrangement," and declared, that "setting the higher value upon the happy effect of the cares and solicitude of the Mediating Powers, as his Majesty sees in this with pleasure the removal of the last obstacles which still opposed the final conclusion of the plan of indemnities and the re-establishment of the peace, and tranquility of Germany, his majesty made no doubt that the Imperial sanction would immediately put the seal to all the other arrangements agreed upon, and which must fix henceforth the fate and the existence of the Germanic Body."

All the letters from Germany agree in stating, that the Conclusion would be passed on the 1st or 2d Germinal (March 22 or 23.)

Thus every germ of contention is extinguished on the Continent; political order has been re established; every thing is terminated to the satisfaction of the different powers, and the alarming reports which have been spread are entirely without foundation. Men of sense ought to be on their guard at the present moment against such fabricated intelligence. It is above all proper to request the Journalists to appreciate a little better what they draw from foreign papers. How could the Editor of the Publiciste, who generally afford no ground to question their discernment, repeat from an English Journal, that France wished to get possession of the Crimea, in order to have a military position in Turkey? With a small portion of geographical knowledge, these Journalists would not make such blunders.

We doubt not that other continental Journals will soon copy a pretended letter from the Chief Consul to the King of England written in the gin shop style, adopted by the English papers. To what miserable arts men resort for the purpose of alarming and misleading the multitude. (Moniteur.)

March 27.

We learn from Tunis, that this spring there will be a Camp in the Department of Marengo. The preparations necessary for its establishment are carrying on with activity in every part of the service to which they belong.

Letters from Bourdeaux, dated March 22, says the eagerness with which coffee, and cottons were bought up 3 days ago, has been succeeded by the most perfect stagnation. The Exchange the day before yesterday was remarkable for the inactivity of the demand, in regard to articles which, twenty-four hours before were bought up in large quantities; the prices also seemed to decline. It appears that the ardour of speculation has a little cooled, and every thing proves to day that it was our political situation with England that occasioned here a bustle with the cause of which no one was acquainted.

Five per cents. 54 fr. 40 c.

LEYDEN, March 24.

After having had gloomy intelligence to communicate to our readers we rejoice that we can now prefer them with information of better omen, and equally certain. The French troops will not enter this country, at least not unless hostilities shall commence. Their march is suspended. Every thing proves that the first Consul wishes to add to the various kinds of glory he has acquired, that of the most extreme moderation; and that he is resolved to let the blame of provocation fall entirely on others. This intelligence by dispelling the inquietude of the moment, revives the hope that we may see governments have recourse with success to the means of negotiation and conciliation which they are at present employing.

VIENNA, March 14.

Though the letters from Constantinople of February 15, insinuate that the evacuation of Egypt by the English has taken place, there is some reason for believing that it has not yet been effected, and that Lord Elgin before his departure did not complete the reconciliation of the Porte with the Beys. It is presumed with some degree of probability, that some incident has occurred to change the determination of the Court of London in this respect, and which produced the sudden departure of Lord Elgin, on the arrival of General Brune. In support of this opinion, a circumstance is mentioned, which seems clearly to indicate that the English minister was not very well satisfied with the Porte: We mean the salute, or rather fright, which he gave to the inhabitants of Constantinople in the night, when the frigate on board which he took his passage sailed from the harbour. Lord Elgin was well aware that it was contrary to usage, and contrary even to the will of the Porte, expressed by the Reis Effendi. Would he thus have braved that will, had he been satisfied with the issue of the negotiations?

LONDON, March 28.

Yesterday morning, Mr. Hunter, the messenger, arrived at Lord Hawkebury's office, with dispatches from Lord Whitworth. We do not pretend to be acquainted with their contents; but as Mr. Hunter has hitherto been only employed between Calais and Paris, the circumstance of his being sent here with dispatches, inclines us to attach some importance to them. A French messenger arrived at the same time with dispatches for Genl. Andross.

Yesterday, before the close of the market, the funds had a sudden fall. A certain Broker, who is well known to act for certain French Capitalists, sold out a very large sum at from 65 downwards to 61 per cent, still taking what price he could get, till he had parted with the amount he wished to dispose of. They afterwards rose a little, and left off at 62½.

Rumours, as usual, were abroad; some of them of a most absurd nature, and all of them unfounded. Mr. Pitt was coming into place! The French mail had brought a declaration of war! According to others, it had come by a royal boat!! The Cabinet was sitting, and a Royal Message was to be sent to Parliament declaring all hopes of accommodation at an end!!! These for the war.

On the other hand, the young Duke of Dorset had set off, at one o'clock, to join Lord Whitworth and his mother at Paris—a certain sign of peace! As if the rift of a boy from Harrow School to his little sisters and relatives in Paris, during the Easter vacation, had any thing to do with the question of Peace or War.

Since the receipt of the French papers mentioned in this paper yesterday, we have received others down to the 28th—They contain nothing that can give any indication of the probable issue of the present negotiation. The funds, however, continue to decline, the 5 per cents being at 54 f. 40 c. on Saturday last. On the other hand, Colonial produce, which had risen in price at Bordeaux, on the prevailing opinion that war was probable, has again fallen in value.

The differences between France and Algiers have terminated in a manner, which, it cannot be denied, is highly creditable to the Government of France. The First Consul, with a becoming spirit, promptly refused to become tributary to the Dey, in consequence of which, the Piratical Chief thought proper to desist from his unjust demand. France has thus afforded a most admirable example for the credit of civilization will be followed by Powers of Europe.

SECOND EDITION.

Courier Office, London, Tuesday March 29.
We stop the press to day, the 3 per Cent.
Consols have fallen as low as 61½ and left off at 62. The belief in the city strongly is, that war is inevitable. A bye-boat and Messenger are arrived, and found decisively hostile news according to report. It is still most firmly asserted in the city that Mr. Pitt is instantly coming into office.

CHATHAM, March 29.

The people work from five in the morning till half past six in the afternoon, without being suffered to leave the yard for dinner; they are allowed double days and two tides. The whole yard were employed on Sunday last. In consequence of the late orders a great many men have been entered of every class, except shipwrights, who are much wanted.

PLYMOUTH, March 28.

Last evening arrived in the Sound, his Majesty's ship Dasher, of 18 guns, Capt.
Delafons from Malta with dispatches for Governor, which were immediately landed and forwarded by express to London: it does not appear that she has brought any news of importance: she had a remarkable quick passage, having been only 25 days from Malta: before she passed the Gut of Gibraltar, she spoke by signal the Bellisle, of 74 guns, Capt.
Whitey, steering for Malta; this ship failed from this port under sealed orders, and was supposed to be gone for the West Indies—it appears that the Maltese are very desirous that the island should remain in possession of the English, and are determined to resist, to the last extremity, any other power that may attempt to take possession of it: it was apprehended at Malta that Egypt was evacuated, and that the troops were on the way to that island.

SALEM, May 10.

No war yet.—Capt. Gould left Bordeaux the 1st April, and the river the 6th.
Peace and War then held an even balance, and the turning of one scale or other was momentarily expected. Preparations for war continued with unabated activity. The English vessels, whether loaded or not, were hastening away, for fear of an embargo. The letters by Capt. G. speak of War as almost inevitable.

NEW YORK, May 14.

The ship Pitt, capt. Campbell, arrived at this port at a late hour last evening, in 35 days from Greenock. She left there on the 7th April, but brings papers only to the 1st, containing London Intelligence to the 30th March. From one of that date, received at the office of the Mercantile Advertiser, we select the subjoined articles: In addition to which the captain informs us, that a very warm impression of seamen was carrying on at Greenock, but that no declaration of war had taken place at the time of his departure.

"On Sunday a courier arrived with dispatches to General Andreossi, with which he and his Secretary of Legation, M. Portalis, were occupied for several hours. They were of such importance, that his excellency was obliged to absent himself from a large party that he had engaged to dinner. It was rumoured that their contents were somewhat of a hostile complexion, but on what authority we were not able to ascertain.

"A letter received on Saturday morning states that the merchant vessels in the ports of Dunkirk, Calais, and Boulogne, put to sea on Thursday last in consequence of an assurance from the French Government that they might proceed on their respective destinations with safety.

"A private letter from Paris states, that England demands as a pledge of the peaceful intention of France, the occupation of Malta, for a term of years, to which, it is believed at Paris, Bonaparte will accede. The only difference between the two governments that remains to be settled being the length of time which the island shall continue in our possession.

"We have received letters from Constantinople to the 11th of February, the contents of which, are however, of but trivial import.—Respecting Egypt, our correspondent briefly observes—"A brig of war, on the 1st of January, arrived at Alexandria, in 32 days from England, charged with orders for the immediate evacuation of the place."

BALTIMORE, May 15.

Arrived, ship Augusta, Dawson, from Liverpool. In lat. 46, long. 16. 4th April, spoke ship Warrington, Turner, from Liverpool for Boston. 8th, lat. 46, long. 19, 30, ship Rufus, Howland, from Liverpool for Savannah. Lat. 39, 40, long. 51, ship Delaware, Smith from Philadelphia to Lisbon, 13 days out. May 4, lat. 39, 30, long. 61, ship Experiment, from New York to Nanzy, out 5 days. In lat. 38, ship Two Generals, from Lisbon for Norfolk, 35 days out.

Also, schr. William, Woodbury of Portland, from Basseterre, (Guad.) The sloop Ruby of Rhode Island failed with the William. Left there 21st April, schr.
Catharine, Broughton of Marblehead; Nancy, Babson, of Cape Ann; sloop Dove, Hatch, of Wetherfield, and a schr. from Rhode Island, just arrived, name unknown. In lat. 32, long. 73, spoke sch. Neptune, Peace, bound to Guadeloupe.

Also, schr. Chance, Smith, from Oercock.
Schr. Federal George, Symonds, from Boston.

Also, schr. Ethan Allen, Copeland, from do.

A British 74 and a 50 gun ship arrived at Norfolk on Friday last.

Also, brig Sally, Robb, from Aux Cayes.
Left there 19th April, brigs Friendship, Wellman, of Salem; —, Plymouth, Bradshaw, do. schr. Sally, Child, of Philadelphia, sent in by a French armed brig.

Capt. R. reports that three American merchants were detained in the military fort at Jacmel, and refused passports. Mr.
M'Intosh of Aux Cayes, had applied to general La Plume for a release, but that quarter not being under his command could not grant them, but he had every expectation of obtaining from the commanding general Brunette, who arrived at Aux Cayes, a few days before the sailing of the Sally; they are Messrs. Robins, James Barry and Joseph Gardner. The Aux Cayes, he represents in a dreadful situation, no colonial produce to be had, and money very scarce; the troops sickly; all the pains and moun- in possession of the blacks and mulattos; they have daily skirmishes and very often drive the troops close to the town. There is not more than two or three ports from Jacmel down, in possession of the French. They were in daily expectation of troops; one transport had arrived there from Dunkirk with 120 men, who reported 5000 on their way for the fourth department, that failed about the same time. All the men and women that can get away are daily leaving the island.
Capt. R. brought 20 passengers.

Alexandria Advertiser.

TUESDAY, MAY 17.

"The occupier of a Glass House should not throw Stones."

In my paper of the 13th inst. an error escaped observation, in the hurry of reading the proof sheet, which has drawn forth the following in the Expositor of yesterday:

"For the Alexandria Expositor.
"Mr. Snowden is requested to inform his readers, what is meant by "Caustic instruments may be constructed, for converting at a distance, without assistance of tubes to convey the sound?"
"If he answers that he copied it from another paper, in which it was so worded, permit me to say through the channel of the Expositor, that an Editor at least ought to understand the meaning of what he cuts out of another paper before he inserts it in his own."
"Yours, O. O. O."

The author of the above is not known to me, but from its style, I am induced to believe it must have been written by the scape gallowes Doctor himself, notwithstanding his assertion that he received it through the Post Office, which, by the bye, I believe to be a ***. Do you understand this, Mr. Doctor.

Mr. Snowden will feel himself under infinite obligation to the learned Medicine Doctor, Editor of the Expositor, if he will be so good as to define the meaning of the following paragraph which appeared in his paper yesterday, copied from the Aurora:

"The Editor of the Aurora will direct "any enquirer to the person who will "make the above invaluable machinery "upon the terms mentioned at the high h"est. The maker will exhibit the whole "machinery at work by water and can"dle-wick, cotton, yarn, twist, hosiery, "counters, swansdowns, Ripes, &c.

"made by it or out of the materials car"ried and spun by it.

After complying with the above request, do please also be so good as to give your numerous friends and patrons, a definition of the word "STREET," as applied in the Corporation advertisement.

AMERICAN SEAMEN.

As the indications of approaching war in Europe may terminate in that event, we wish to call the attention of the citizens of the United States and particularly the seamen, to such measures as are calculated for their security abroad, and which are customary in time of war.— Should it happen, we hope we shall not witness as one of its consequences a repetition of that indiscriminate scene of impresment of which, during the last, our sea-faring citizens were so often the victims.

But before going to sea at such a precarious time as the present, it behoves the seamen to provide themselves with the passport or protection directed to be issued at the collector's office by the act of Congress and to be careful not to confide in any others, such as those issued by notaries public, justices of the peace, &c. The distinction may be found to be of much consequence; for should a seaman claim exemption from impresment by virtue of a protection of the latter unauthorized kind, he would probably be told that as he had not followed the laws of his own country in taking it from the collector, he was entitled to no favor and that he could not be considered as an American. This caution is more particularly addressed to the seamen themselves, but its observance must depend in a great degree upon the vigilance of the merchants and masters of vessels in seeing it strictly attended to by the former.

Nat. Int.

A late letter from a respectable mercantile house in London, contains the following observations on the present state of political affairs between the Governments of France and England: "A message was sent on Sunday to Bonaparte with the ultimatum of our Court, which is believed to be, that in consequence of the frequent inraction of the Treaty of Amiens, by the French in Switzerland, and their annexing Piedmont and Parma to France, we felt authorized and determined to retain Malta, and to insist that New Orleans and Louisiana shall be restored to Spain, or given up to the United States of America, so that the navigation of the Mississippi shall on no account be left in the power of France."

The following particulars, relating to the loss of the schr. Betsy, Shore, of Norfolk, are given by Capt. Noyes of the schr. Cyrus, from Mogadore, who arrived at Newbury Port the 1st inst.—

That about the 1st of March, a man was brought into Mogadore, from the south of Barbary, by the Arabs, by the name of John Brodie, who said he was cast away on the coast, in the schr. Betsy of Norfolk, Samuel Shore master, on the 24th of June last—that they were bound to Madeira, and had been out 70 days, that they were out of water, and came to anchor for the purpose of procuring some, that the mate and two more hands were sent on shore, that they never were heard of afterwards: that at the time the vessel was wrecked, the capt. was drowned in the surf in attempting to reach the shore. John Brodie also informed capt.
Noyes, that there were 2 of the schr. people in slavery in that country, one by the name of James Irvin, of Philadelphia, and the other, Thomas Austin, of New-York. Brodie was redeemed for 70 Dollars, of the Arabs.

A letter has been received in this city, (Phila.) from Brest, dated on board the La Vengeur, 20th March, 1803:

"We are preparing for sea with great activity; 42 sail of the line compose the fleet—hands are abundant. There are upwards of 17,000 former subjects of Geo.
III, principally Irish seamen, in the French ports, principally Brest and Toulon. In our ship more than one half the crew are Irish, and who pant to go out and engage the British. You know how it will be with us if we are defeated; that is enough for us, and we are determined to go to the bottom, sooner than suffer under the legal tyranny of our former masters. Either at Bantry or Cork we shall have an anchorage before long. Our countrymen are well received and treated, and officers placed over us who speak to us in English.

We are often visited by General Tandy and captain Corbit his aid, [The letter of which this is an extract, is from the carpenter of the ship.] Aurora.
